To examine the association between physicians' responses to acute respiratory distress and subsequent changes in physiological status, a single-blind, prospective, cohort study was performed at a university-affiliated pediatric hospital. At the time of admission, physiologic status was assessed for all children aged less than or equal to 18 years. Physiologic variables were measured again after resolution of acute respiratory distress and were compared with variables obtained at admission. Pediatricians (n = 34),

What's New In RJ Tools?

AJ Tools is a Microsoft Excel add-in that complements the set of calculating functions offered by the software. The add-in comes with extra functions that facilitate the editing of spreadsheets as well as data comparison, advanced selection making and mathematical equations solving. Science brought closer, in your spreadsheet editor AJ Tools allows you to insert several types of functions into your spreadsheet, functions that Excel could not offer, normally. Thus, the new available categories include management tools, formulas and values, instruments for editing rows columns or ranges, cell formatting, scientific functions, as well as lists/sheets editor. The software can detect duplicates, allows you to search for text and values, compare them and move/copy them to newly created sheets. Moreover, you can easily insert a mathematical operation in a new cell created between pre-existing ones, add a custom character sequence, a dynamic named range or a formula for the error message. Previously defined formulas can be converted, transferred, highlighted to sent to clipboard. Managing tables and structures AJ Tools allows you to convert any table from an Excel spreadsheet to a 2D scheme, with highlighted cells. You may compare two ranges of sheets, remove all the empty cells in a column or a row, as well as manage individual cells. For instance, you can automate the creation of custom size cells, by inserting the criteria, wrap text, convert numbers to decimals and add date settings. The add-in brings a large collection of pre-made templates that you can insert to a spreadsheet or workbook, such as a list of files, installed fonts, names, a list of add-ins, pivot tables, queries, external links or a list of formulas. Additionally, you can sort the sheets in ascending/descending alphabetical order and password protect them. Reliable set of functions for easy spreadsheet management With AJ Tools working with multiple sheets and large amounts of data is made easy. The add-in comes as a complementary set of functions for Microsoft Excel, ranging from cell management, to automatically removing empty columns/rows and editing formulas. The add-in can also display detailed information about
