
October 4, 2557 B.C. â€” I recently bought several HC05 and HC-06 Bluetooth modules. It's pretty standard, especially when used with an Arduino, and I was surprised. ----- Alexey Shipilev The modules, as you can see, are based on the ATmega328 chip. From my own experience I can say that this chip is very, very good. It can be used without any problems in Arduino systems. It costs a little more, but you will not have problems with cheaper modules. ----- Now we have a decent enough number of modules to experiment further. In the future, it will be necessary to study whether a bunch of three modules works with Arduino. -----
