The authors' experience in the treatment of thoracoabdominal aneurysm is based on the study of 85 consecutive patients, whose histologic examination of the surgical specimens revealed a malignant tumor in 85% of the cases. The aneurysm was below the renal arteries in 60% of the cases; in 25% of the cases it was type IIB; in 15% of the cases it was type IIIA.

The mean operative mortality was 24%. Surgical intervention should be based on a multidisciplinary approach, taking into account the prognostic aspects in the various subtypes of this pathology.

Kathryn Lasky (born January 15, 1970) is an American documentary filmmaker and public speaker. She is best known for her 2015 documentary Unbroken: A World War II Story of Survival, Resilience, and Redemption about Louis Zamperini, an American Olympic runner, World War II veteran, and former prisoner of war in Japan. Early life Kathryn Lasky was born and raised in New York City.

Her mother, the painter Marion Lasky, was the eldest daughter of the artist Samuel Lasky, the eldest son of Russian-Jewish immigrant emigrant Israel Lasky. Her father, Martin Lasky, was a fellow Polish-American and a former high school wrestling champion. She is the great-granddaughter of poet Emma Lazarus and of Pablo Casals, founder and conductor of the Casals Foundation. Education Lasky graduated from Woodstock College. Career Lasky's first documentary was A Dance of Macabre: Michael Jackson's Death. The film debuted at the 56th Venice International Film Festival in 2004.

In 2010, she produced and co-directed "If I Hadn't Been for the Draft," an interactive lecture/music event featuring Kat Graham, Tim Minchin, Bob DeKoff, James Loy and Josh Groban
