Links: Official website: Android version: Windows version: Q: Big O notation and time complexity for (a+b+c) In question about the time complexity of 3 nested for loops with different time complexities I mentioned that (i+j+k) is equivalent to i*j*k. Which make sense, but my question is: What is the time complexity of i*j*k as it's not constant! (I.e. $O(N*N*N)$, as N is the no. of iterations of the outer loop) A: You are wrong: you are not multiplying the time complexity of j*k by the time complexity of i*j. The time complexity of i*j*k is the same as the time complexity of (i*j+k), which is the same as the time complexity of i*j+j*k. Since i*j+j*k is the same as i*j*(1+k/j), which is the same as i*j*(1+(1+k)/j), which is the same as i*j*(1+j/(1+k)) = i*j*(1+j)/(1+k). Therefore, the time complexity of i*j*k is the same as i*j*(1+1/j), which is the same as $O(i*j)$. Leicht v Callan Family Dental, P.C. (2017 NY Slip Op 05425)

What's New In Synqit?

Synqit is a program that will allow you to upload contacts directly to Skype. You can select the phone number or email address you wish to convert. This will be saved to the desktop and you can easily copy and paste it into Skype. Synqit Description: Do you have more than one number saved in Skype, but you don't know how to get rid of them? Or perhaps, you have more email contacts in gmail that you wish to add to your Skype contact list? Synqit helps to solve both of these problems at once.Q: Can GitHub be configured to auto-delete stale branches? GitHub recently released a feature called "Delete stale merge requests." However, it seems to be only applicable to merge requests, not branches. In our case, we would like to have a branch deleted automatically when it becomes "stale" and no one is actively working on that branch. Does anyone know a way to accomplish this? A: So it looks like deleting a stale merge request is just like any other merge request. You just have to flag it as stale first. As mentioned by user2757569 in the comments, you can do so by creating a manual merge request and then just deleting the branch as a merge request is just a pointer to a branch in your git repository. If you do this, then when it becomes stale you would just see a "retired" merge request. Q: What do the @ and # do in the command line? What do the @ and # do? I read that they are some kind of output? git diff --no-ext-diff @/@/log.txt git diff --no-ext-diff /usr/src/logs/security/ct/isakmpd.out@/@/log.txt git diff --no-ext-diff #/#/log.txt A: As LMT stated, @ and # are, respectively, Git style wildcards and regular expressions. Per the Git documentation: One of the many Git commands takes any number of paths as arguments. For example: $ echo foo bar baz | git grep -l fo [...] When there is only one or two arguments, the command uses the strings after the @ to find the wildcards. For example:
